UK Flooding Management

The Liberal Party notes ongoing concerns on the dangers of local and regional flooding as the UK's weather evolves in the face of Climate Change.

We call on all organisations charged with aspects of flood management such as councils, drainage boards, landowners, and the Environment Agency to work together to ensure comprehensive and joined up management and intervention.

Actions such as the timely dredging of rivers to ensure the free movement of water, managed release of water from reservoirs and land management to ensure trees act as a natural management system for water flows all lessen the impact of flooding.

We believe the Environment Agency has a key role in overseeing housing developments and their impact on drainage.

The party reject the unchallenged building on flood plains and call for more robust enforcement by the Environment Agency to eliminate it. Such building has been driven by housing targets not aligned with local land availability or drainage consideration.

The provision of flood defences should not simply reflect commercial and domestic property value but also the sustainability of communities large and small.

The increased regularity of flooding cannot be separated from the challenges of Climate Change and the development of a more unpredictable rainfall pattern in this country.

Creation of 25 Single-tier Local Authorities by Abolishing Smaller Councils

The Liberal Party notes recent media reports that the County Councils Network has commissioned a study by PriceWaterhouseCoopers recommending the abolition of 213 of England's smallest councils and replacing them with 25 new larger local authorities.

This report is in advance of the publication of central government plans on overhauling the local government system due later in the year.

The Liberal Party is committed to local democracy and the retention of district councils to provide locally accountability and the local knowledge needed to provide relevant services.

We believe the further the seat of governance is away from people, the more diluted the service provided is and the less the public voice is heard. We do not believe the muted £3bn savings represent £3bn in additional funding for local services.

We would urge the electorate to vote to rid yourself of ineffective councillors, not councils.

NHS Patient Backlog and Waiting Lists Post Covid-19

The Liberal Party notes media reports on the backlog of elective surgery and increases waiting lists in the aftermath of the Covid-19 pandemic.

Although the NHS was able to mobilise resources at the start of the pandemic this has highlighted the erosion of bed numbers and the closure of wards in this country over the last 20 years leading to excessive utilisation and a lack of spare capacity.

The response to the NHS waiting list backlogs should be addressed at a local level with targeted funding to expand wards and bed numbers and to priorities the most acute procedures and cancer treatment which were terminated at the start of the pandemic.

We believe funding should be directed to local hospitals and convalescent homes to provide better care in the community as well as acting as a hub for community health and wellbeing in line with our party policy initiative.

Grenfell Tower Cladding Replacement

The Liberal party notes with concern a media report (2nd Sept 2020) that the Mayor of London has written to 51 city landlords requesting an urgent update on the removal of flammable cladding from high rise properties.

These private and social landlords received government funding to remove cladding on their buildings and are amongst a reported 100 such building in the London area needing urgent remedial action.

This situation is replicated across the country where many private residents have been left in the intolerable situation of facing substantial bills to fund the replacement process whilst living in potentially unsafe properties.

The party believes that the removal of ACM (aluminium composite material) cladding is a national priority and whilst we welcome the £1bn Building Safety Fund to deal with unsafe ACM cladding on buildings but believe central funding should be provided for all such residential properties.

Transgender Rights and Safeguarding

The transgender community has grown in recent years primarily because of liberation of gender and sexual identification. The Liberal Party supports and encourages individual autonomy as a valid path to personal happiness and wellbeing.

Development and change in society has created conflict for some citizens in their physiological and social roles and between their natal sex and people who identify their gender differently.

Transgender people should be treated as equals and as individuals. We realise however, that the Rights, of transgender people and of those who identify as their natal birth, must be raised in order to develop measures needed to ensure safety, privacy and respect.

The Liberal Party supports these measures:

- 1) Transgender Individuals who wish to change their legal sex must be allowed to do so. We support the continued necessity of medical gatekeeping with any legal change of sex and oppose any legal changes based upon self-identification.
- 2) We support segregation by biological sex in prisons and women's' refuges in order to maintain the safety and privacy of natal females. Separate prison accommodation should be provided for transgender citizens to ensure their safety and privacy.
- 3) Healthcare spending and resources for gender dysphoric individuals, including long-term psychological intervention, should be provided at sufficient levels. Physical or gender modifying drug-based medical treatments for gender dysphoria should be prohibited for anyone under 18 years of age.
- 4) We support the retention of biological sex and gender identity as distinct categories in public sector data gathering such as in crime statistics, poverty metrics or public health research.
- 5) We support the use of plain English for discussions of biological sex in health and reproductive care.
